DEADLINE FOR ENTRIES: AUGUST 13, 2010

An independent jury made up of industry leaders in the A/E/C industry will judge the projects in 22 categories. The winners will be honored at an awards ceremony later in the year and will be featured in the December issue of South Central Construction. Top category winners will move on to compete in the Best of the Best 2010 Awards, McGraw-Hill Construction's national competition. Best of the Best winners will be profiled in Engineering News-Record, reaching over 150,000 design and construction professionals.

We look forward to including your company's achievements in this important issue. Thanks for your time and efforts.

South Central Construction is a monthly magazine providing local, in-depth and comprehensive coverage on heavy engineering, highway, building and industrial construction news in the four-state area of Alabama, Arkansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee. Each issue spotlights many of the industry's most visible projects and addresses our industry's hottest topics and trends. South Central Construction's experienced industry journalists provide in-depth local feature stories, construction market data and analysis, project-focused news items, a calendar of events, new product announcements, law and financial columnists, industry and association news, who's on the move, and other information.

Our TOP lists help define the market and our "Best Of" awards program recognizes the South Central's best constructed projects.

Additionally, South Central Construction is part of a family of 10 regional construction magazines known as Regional Construction Publications (RCP), a division of McGraw-Hill Construction - which also includes Engineering News-Record, Architectural Record, Dodge and Sweet's.

These corporate-added resources strengthen substantially our ability to provide readers with proprietary construction information not available from other construction news sources.
